JOHN B. WATKINS.

Good morning, have you patronized the dispensary?

Write it 1904 now and save trouble of scratching out and saying cuss words.

An exchange says rich men are not always happy. That is true, we have found it so in our own experience.

Misses Pamela Kirskey and Gertrude Green, of Petersburg, Va., are visiting Miss Daisy Leonard, on Fair-ground street.

Now, let's all go to work determined to make 1904 the best year in the history of Henderson and our individual lives and business.

Have you lost a fountain pen? We have one in our possession, found on the street a few days ago by Mr. J. F. Bonn. Owner can get same by proving title and paying charges.

Mr. John Reavis, of the Wisconsin neighborhood of Warren county, reports the biggest hog, according to age, the GOLD LEAF has chronicled this season. He killed one 15 months old that weighed 685 pounds.

Manager Aronson remembered the Opera House usher Christmas by presenting each one with a present. The gift was in the form of a neat little scroll pin, two of which, and was duly appreciated by the recipients.

Another happy couple from Virginia were married in Henderson Tuesday night. The contracting parties were Mr. Herbert T. Clarke and Miss Jessie B. Clarke, of Dinwiddie, Va. Rev. J. H. Henderlite performed the ceremony.

Mr. A. T. Barnes, the popular furniture trader, closed his Christmas trade where he was glad, but it remained for the advent of a little girl at his home to make him significantly happy. Such a Christmas gift does not come the way of every man and friend Barnes counts himself doubly fortunate. Mother and daughter both doing well.

Mr. J. E. McCarroll, the popular and capable manager of the Postal Telegraph Company, went to Lexington, Va., yesterday to see his brother, Orville, ticket and passenger agent of the union station at that point. He will be away until the latter part of the week. It is not often that Mr. McCarroll gets away and he does not stay long then. So many of his friends to his business or is more faithful to every duty than Ed McCarroll.

CURIOUS CURE FOR CHILDREN.
Shake into your shoes Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder. It cures Chilblains, Frostbites, Bumps, Swellings, Swollen Feet. At all Drug-gists and Shoe Stores, 25c.

Fountain Pen Found.
Mr. J. F. Bonn picked up a fountain pen on Montgomery street a few days ago, which he has handed to us to find the owner. Loser can get same by calling at this office, proving title and paying for this notice.

Succeeds Mr. Walker.

Rev. L. X. Loftin, of Wake Forest, will preach at South Sandy Creek Baptist church Sunday. He will be pastor of Island Creek and Rock Spring churches also, succeeding Rev. R. P. Walker, who goes to Maplehead City.

Rev. J. W. Downey, of Vine Grove, Ky., will succeed Mr. Walker as pastor of North Henderson Baptist church.

Hancock's Liquid Sulphur should be in every home. It cures eczema, pimples, tetter, ringworms, dandruff, itching, open sores, dyspepsia, sore throat, and all blood and skin diseases. No home should be without it. Ask your druggist for a book on Liquid Sulphur. For sale at The Eagle Pharmacy.

Marriage of Mr. W. C. Hight and Miss Eva Langston.

The marriage of Mr. W. C. Hight and Miss Eva Langston should have been mentioned last week. They were married at the home of Mr. W. W. Langston, father of the bride, Rev. J. D. Bundy performing the ceremony. The groom is a member of the firm of Hight & Grissom, merchants at the Henderson Cotton Mills, and both young people have many friends who extend congratulations and best wishes.

A slight cold in the head or chest. It may lead into Pneumonia or Consumption. Paracamp will relieve such troubles instantly. You simply apply freely and rub in well. It is mother's remedy. For sale at The Eagle Pharmacy.

Eloped to Henderson and Married.
Henderson is getting to be a regular Greta Green of late. There is a runaway marriage here about every week. And Massenburg's Hotel is the place where the marriages usually take place. The latest was that of Mr. Eldridge M. Spencer and Miss Lottie Merriman, of Petersburg, Va., who were married at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday. They came over on the night train accompanied by friends, and got married next morning, returning home on the Northbound train. Rev. J. H. Henderlite performed the ceremony.

TWENTY-TWO YEARS OLD.

What Some of Its Exchanges Say of The Gold Leaf on Attaining its Twenty-Second Year Under the Same Management.

Warrenton Record.

The Henderson GOLD LEAF is twenty-two years old and grows better as it grows older. Mr. Thad R. Manning is one of the best editors in the State. We always look forward to the coming of the GOLD LEAF with a great deal of interest.

Wilmington Messenger.

We extend our congratulations to Brother Thad Manning, editor and proprietor of the Henderson GOLD LEAF on that paper having rounded up its twenty-second year of usefulness to the State and enjoyment to its many readers. May he and his paper continue for years to battle for the rights of the people as they have so nobly done in the past.

Rich Square Bonhomme-Chowen Times.

The Henderson GOLD LEAF, one of the best papers in the State, is now twenty-two years old, having all these years had the same man at the helm. Mr. Thad R. Manning, a loyal and patriotic son of the Old North State, one who at all times and on all occasions is zealous of his own and the courage to express them. A Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to the GOLD LEAF, and may it continue to come to the Times office, where it is looked for with interest every week.

Oxford Public Ledger.

We congratulate our good friend, Mr. Thad R. Manning, upon the completion on last Thursday of the twenty-second volume of his excellent paper, the Henderson GOLD LEAF. For a number of years we have had the pleasure of a somewhat intimate acquaintance with him and there is no one who more abundantly deserves the support of his people. He has made the GOLD LEAF one of the cleanest and best weeklies in the State. His paper has been a potent factor in the development of our progressive sister town of Henderson. The editor has stood for the best interest of his people and has "rung clear" on all questions affecting their welfare. May he be spared many more years of usefulness to his town and community, and may he complete many more volumes of his splendid paper, the sincere wish of his friend, the editor of the Public Ledger.

Home to Spend Christmas.

The Christmas holidays brought unusual pleasure to Mr. John W. Short, one of our good farmer friends in the country. He had his three absent sons—all manly, sober, industrious young fellows—home with him. They had not all been together before in several years. They are Ollie Green, of Evansville, Indiana, who runs as engineer on a railroad between that place and Chicago; Thomas, who runs as engineer on the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad out from Richmond, and Alins, who runs as fireman between Richmond and Washington. Ollie has been away eleven or twelve years and many of his friends did not recognize him. The other boys being nearer home came oftener and while they were not such strangers their presence gave pleasure to the "old man" and to their friends.

"FORCE," a ready-to-serve, ready-to-digest, delightful food, brings the independent strength that comes of health.

Christmas in Henderson.

Christmas was observed in Henderson in the usual way—as a holiday and occasion of feasting, giving, social interchange and noise making. Everybody seemed to have a good time and there were no casualties of a serious nature. One of the most gratifying features was the good order and general freedom from drunkenness. There was drinking, too much of it—but only one arrest was made on Christmas eve for drunkenness and not a single one on Christmas day. When we consider the fact that the liquor men were selling out at reduced prices to close business, it speaks well for our people that there was no more drunkenness and disorder, for if ever there was a time when such conditions might have been expected this was the time.

Everybody seemed to have a good time but it was a good natured and orderly crowd that thronged the streets and places of business both preceding and after Christmas. The merchants had a good trade and most of them sold out pretty closely of their Christmas stocks.

VERY SAD DEATH.

Mrs. Cicero W. Harris, of Washington City, Dies Quite Unexpectedly—A Brilliant and Accomplished Woman, Native of This County.

Mr. W. H. Jenkins received a telegram Monday morning announcing the death of his sister, Mrs. Cicero W. Harris, in Washington City. The intelligence was a painful shock to the family and friends. No particulars were given and it was not known that she was sick.

The particulars of her death are these: Mrs. Harris had been staying temporarily at a hotel at Rockville, Md., a short distance from Washington. About three weeks previous to her death she broke her left arm as the result of a fall. While walking along a railroad embankment she slipped and fell not more than five or six feet, striking her left side on the end of a cross tie. She appeared to be getting on very well and Saturday she was able to walk about the room, read newspapers and dictate some correspondence. Sunday she grew worse and died that night.

Mrs. Harris—formerly Miss Carrie Jenkins—was a native of Granville (now Vance) county, and was well known to many of our people. She was an unusually bright and cultivated woman and through her literary work as a newspaper writer and magazine editor, she had won a reputation. She was rarely gifted intellectually, accomplished in graces, brilliant in conversation, charming in manner—and the writer has said to her had she been born a man she would have achieved a high reputation as a politician or diplomat.

Her letters during the Buffalo Exposition and while traveling in Europe some years ago will be recalled by readers of the GOLD LEAF. Mrs. Harris had traveled extensively, visiting Greece, Egypt, France, England, Italy and other foreign countries writing letters descriptive of the people, customs, scenery, etc. She wrote under the pen name of "Charles Edward Lloyd," and by this name she will be remembered as having contributed to many of the leading papers of this State. Mrs. Harris was an intense North Carolinian and although she had for many years resided outside of the State she never lost her identity with its people and interests and never had at heart their highest welfare.

The body was brought to Henderson Tuesday night. At 10 o'clock Wednesday morning funeral services were held at the Episcopal church, conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. H. E. Hight. The body was taken to Williamsboro and laid to rest in the old family burying ground.

The following account is taken from Mr. Thomas J. Pence's Washington correspondence of the Raleigh Herald:

Mrs. Harris was the wife of Cicero W. Harris, a Washington correspondent who is well known to North Carolina newspaper readers, having done special work for nearly forty years in the States. The deceased, who was born in Williamsboro, formerly Granville, now Vance county, N. C., and lived in the States for an intense patriotic "Tar Heel." She knew the history of the State well.

During the last few months Mrs. Harris had charge of the press work in connection with the exposition at St. Louis. She had charge of some of the work for the American exhibitors and remained in Paris throughout the exposition. She was connected with the press bureau of the Pan-American exposition in Buffalo in 1901. It had been the intention of the managers of the St. Louis Exposition to send Mrs. Harris to Europe in their interest, and had she gone she would have also been commissioned a special representative of the State Department to secure certain exhibits that are wanted by the government to make up its portion of the show.

The Raleigh News and Observer editorially says this:
The death of Mrs. Carrie Jenkins Harris will be regretted by a wide circle of friends in North Carolina and by the newspaper fraternity. She was a native of Granville, graduated with honors and first voted herself to teaching music in Williamsboro College Institute. She was an excellent teacher, brilliant and accomplished. While in the States she married Mr. Cicero W. Harris, at that time editor of the Wilmington Star. Later she established the South Atlantic Magazine, a literary monthly that published many articles of literary and editorial merit. For twenty years she has been engaged in newspaper and literary work in Washington and was at one time a correspondent of the paper. About two years ago she edited and published a book called "State Trials," in which the trials of several historic personages were described. The book was well received. During the Buffalo Exposition she was connected with the press bureau and at the time of her death was assisting Mr. P. V. Delmar in the press work of the Louisiana Exposition.

Mrs. Harris had read much and traveled in Europe and all portions of America. She had a great love for art and music and her letters from Greece and other European countries were charming descriptions of the customs and manners of the people. She loved art and music and was proficient in both. She formerly wrote much for North Carolina newspapers and was well posted on North Carolina politics as any man. She loved her State, its history, its traditions and its people and hoped to return here to spend her last days. About three weeks ago she sustained serious injuries by falling from a horse while near the Baltimore and Ohio depot in Washington City, she seemed to be recovering, but was suddenly stricken and passed away. She was about fifty-six years of age.

Congratulations From the Man Who Suggested the Name Gold Leaf.

It was twenty-two years ago when we came to Henderson with a view of embarking in the newspaper business. Before we had decided upon a name by which the paper should be known we met Col. W. F. Beasley on the street one day and he asked us what would be the name of the paper. The answer was that no name had been decided upon, that we did not want to call it the News, the Times, the Herald, or any other common place name. Using the coat of arms of North Carolina as a center we wanted a name of two words with the same number of letters on each side, and the name should be both new and suggestive. Reflecting for a moment and suggesting two or three different titles Col. Beasley suggested the name "Gold Leaf." "Think you," we said, "that is it—GOLD LEAF—suggestive of the bright golden colored tobacco which is made in such perfection and profusion in this section and for the sale of which Henderson is the leading market." The GOLD LEAF—original name in title at least—bearing the name of no other newspaper in the world. And whether it be that golden thoughts shall emanate from its pages or gold flow into its coffers, GOLD LEAF in name it shall be. And so it was christened, and for the twenty-two years it has stood in a class alone, in name at least.

We are reminded of this circumstance by a letter just received from Col. Beasley congratulating us upon completing the GOLD LEAF's second year of publication of the paper. Writing from Baltimore, under date of Dec. 28, he says:

"So it has been 22 years since I suggested 'GOLD LEAF' to you. Alas! how the years have passed. I congratulate you on the success of the GOLD LEAF. If you have not made money out of it you certainly have made a success of the paper."

What the Saloon Men Will Do.

There will be considerable changing around in business circles with the beginning of the New Year. All the liquor men will be retired by operation of the dispensary law. Mr. D. C. Loughlin will go to Cortland, N. Y., and engage in the hotel business. His brother, Mr. Artie Loughlin, will go with him. Mr. G. L. Adams, who has been at "Dave's Place" a long time, will engage in other business but as yet he is undecided as to what he will do.

Mr. W. Reavis will continue business as heretofore, running his store, sales stables and farm, only dropping the liquor business.

Mr. S. S. Whitten is not yet decided upon his course for the future. It is not likely that he will leave Henderson, though, his property interests here being large. He is too active and too good a business man to be content to do nothing although pretty "well fixed."

Mr. D. L. Parker will open a bottling works using his present place of business for the purpose. He will manufacture and bottle soda waters, sarsaparilla, ginger ale and mineral waters and will be in position to supply the trade of Henderson and surrounding territory.

Mr. W. L. Seagins will open a pool room and restaurant. Mr. W. C. Ross will look after his meat market and other business, probably continuing his restaurant.

MRS. E. H. DUNAKIN

WRITES A LETTER ABOUT VINOL.

How Pale Women May Get Strength.

Rich, Red Blood and the Bloom of Health in Their Faces.

A pale, bloodless face indicates trouble; it is a sign of weakness, and as we see so many right here in Henderson the following letter will interest many of our readers.

Mrs. E. H. Dunakin, State Chairman of Correspondence, Woman's Literary Union of Pennsylvania, writes: "I suffered for over a year with general dillity and weakness. I had severe backaches, headaches, and was pale and nervous. My physician prescribed different remedies, but they did not seem to help me at all. I was told to take Vinol, and it has cured me of a severe stomach trouble. I tried it, and soon felt greatly improved, and after taking four bottles I can say I am free from all my troubles, and it has made me well once more. Several of my friends are using it with beneficial results for lung and stomach troubles and to restore lost strength."

MRS. E. H. DUNAKIN.

Mr. W. W. Parker, our well known druggist, says: "There is absolutely no need for people to suffer around weak, pale, nervous, run-down and debilitated, for he guarantees that Vinol will in a natural manner build up the weak, give strength to the aged, restore the color to pale faces, cure stomach troubles, nervousness, hard colds, hacking coughs and make rich, red blood. Containing as it does all the vitalizing principles of cod liver oil, without any oil to upset the stomach. Vinol is the most wonderful restorer of health and strength known to medicine; it is not a patent medicine, and is absolutely free from all harmful drugs."

If it fails to give satisfaction money is refunded without question, and it will pay every week or ailing person in Henderson to try it on our guarantee, W. W. Parker, Druggist.

ELEGANT RECEPTION.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Parker Entertain in Honor of Their Daughter, Miss Closs, Who Makes Her Debut into Society.

Contributed.

Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Scott Parker gave an elegant reception in honor of their daughter, Miss Closs Parker, it being the occasion of her debut into society. The hours were from 4 o'clock in the afternoon until 12 at night Wednesday, December 23rd. More than one hundred invitations were sent out. The married ladies were invited from 4 to 6 p. m., and the young ladies and young gentlemen in the evening.

The handsome home was beautifully decorated with holly, mistletoe and masses of cut flowers, and was made brilliant for the occasion. Miss Willie Parker received the guests in the hall and took them into the front parlor, where they were presented to the receiving party—Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Parker, Miss Closs Parker, Mrs. J. Hill Parham, Mrs. J. P. Taylor, Mrs. Arthur S. Pendleton, and Mrs. S. P. Cooper.

The fair and lovely debutante wore an elegant imported gown from London and was radiant in her bewitching smiles and charming manner. The guests were then invited into the back parlor where Mrs. D. Y. Cooper, Mrs. Henry Perry, and Mrs. Joseph Burwell received.

Next they were ushered into the dining room. Here they were received by Mrs. E. G. Davis and Mrs. J. H. Bridges, and Miss Lela Shannon, who dispensed the most appetizing and elegant delicacies of the season.

Coffee was served in the music room from handsome silver urns, over which Mrs. E. G. Davis and Mrs. Samuel Watkins presided.
